School Colors Have Special Meaning For Yoe Community

Another year of maroon and gray began as students and faculty gathered on September 2, 1986, to start another year at C.H. Yoe High School as Yoeman.

The mystic of the maroon, gray and the Yoeman has traveled down through the years, and generation after generation has held them near and dear as their school colors and mascot. Maroon and gray, taken separately — just colors, together — a symbol. A symbol that throughout the years has become synonymous with C.H. Yoe High School.

The history of the origin of the maroon and gray, has become dim in the memories of those who have come before, but the meaning has continued and still shines bright in current students and alumni.

Maroon, Gray And You Is Cameron Area Phenomenon

Whether young or old, student or alumni — all have a special fondness for and dedication to the school colors, mascot, school song, and Yoe High and its programs. Maroon and gray, symbolic of determination and accomplishments in academics and athletics is a local phenomenon which is often difficult for outsiders to understand.

The roots of this competitiveness and high degree of achieving dates back to the beginning of Yoe High. The philosophy throughout the years seem to project the idea that doing one's best is equated with winning — that the trying is just as important as the final outcome.

Maroon and gray is a state of mind that signifies pride, honor, and support for anything related to YHS. The school colors along with the Yoeman mascot are indigenous with the Cameron side of the Little River. There are maroon and gray shirts, jackets and finally after four years the graduation cap and gown. Even after graduation the maroon and gray does not lose appeal.

◀ Teachers Rae Green and Al Krulock participate in skit during Hearne pep rally.

The Maroon And Gray Banner Came Into Use 64 Years Ago

The chant of maroon and gray has echoed through the halls of Yoe High and on the playing field since 1923.

C.H. Yoe High School opened its doors for the first time on March 19, 1921, and the first graduating class passed through its doors that spring. There is no mention of maroon and gray as school colors or the Yoeman as Mascot in the 1921 and 1922 yearbooks.

In the 1923 annual, there is a passing reference to the Yoeman and maroon and gray in the football section in the YOE-HI, a forerunner of the present day YOEMAN yearbook.

From that year to the present, students have carried the maroon and gray banner forward in UIL academic, musical, and athletic activities. The numerous team and individual honors gathered this year are evident throughout the pages of the 1987 YOEMAN.

Traditions Remain Strong Despite Mystery Of Colors

After an extensive search through newspaper microfilm, interviews with early graduates and local historians, searches through library and museum files, the beginning of maroon and gray as the school colors is still a mystery. Who chose the colors and when the colors were chosen seem to be lost in the past.

Even the beginning of the Yoeman as the mascot cannot be documented. Legend has it that Carrie Yoe, wife of C. H. Yoe, suggested that there be a mascot patterned after the British yeoman and dressed in a Robin-Hood-type costume. Perhaps Mrs. Yoe suggested maroon and gray as the school colors. Unless some documental evidence surfaces, these important segments of Yoe High history will be left to speculation.

There is so much Yoe High history that has been taken for granted over the years. It has been passed from graduates to underclassmen, from parents to children until it has become accepted as fact yet there does not seem to be printed evidence to support it.

Nevertheless, traditions such as school spirit, patriotism, school loyalty have survived the years and are as viable and strong as ever.

◀ Not even windy, cold, overcast weather could discourage fans as they bundle up to offset the elements to watch the Cameron vs. Robinson baseball game.

▲ YOEMAN staff-members Gay Floyd, Beverly Marek, Lisa Williams, and Shawn Parcus assort yearbooks for distribution.

Academics

The word "academics" seems to be one of those words that even though people know what it is, it is hard to define. It could be said that academics is composed of the subjects offered at a school that help ready students for the outside world.

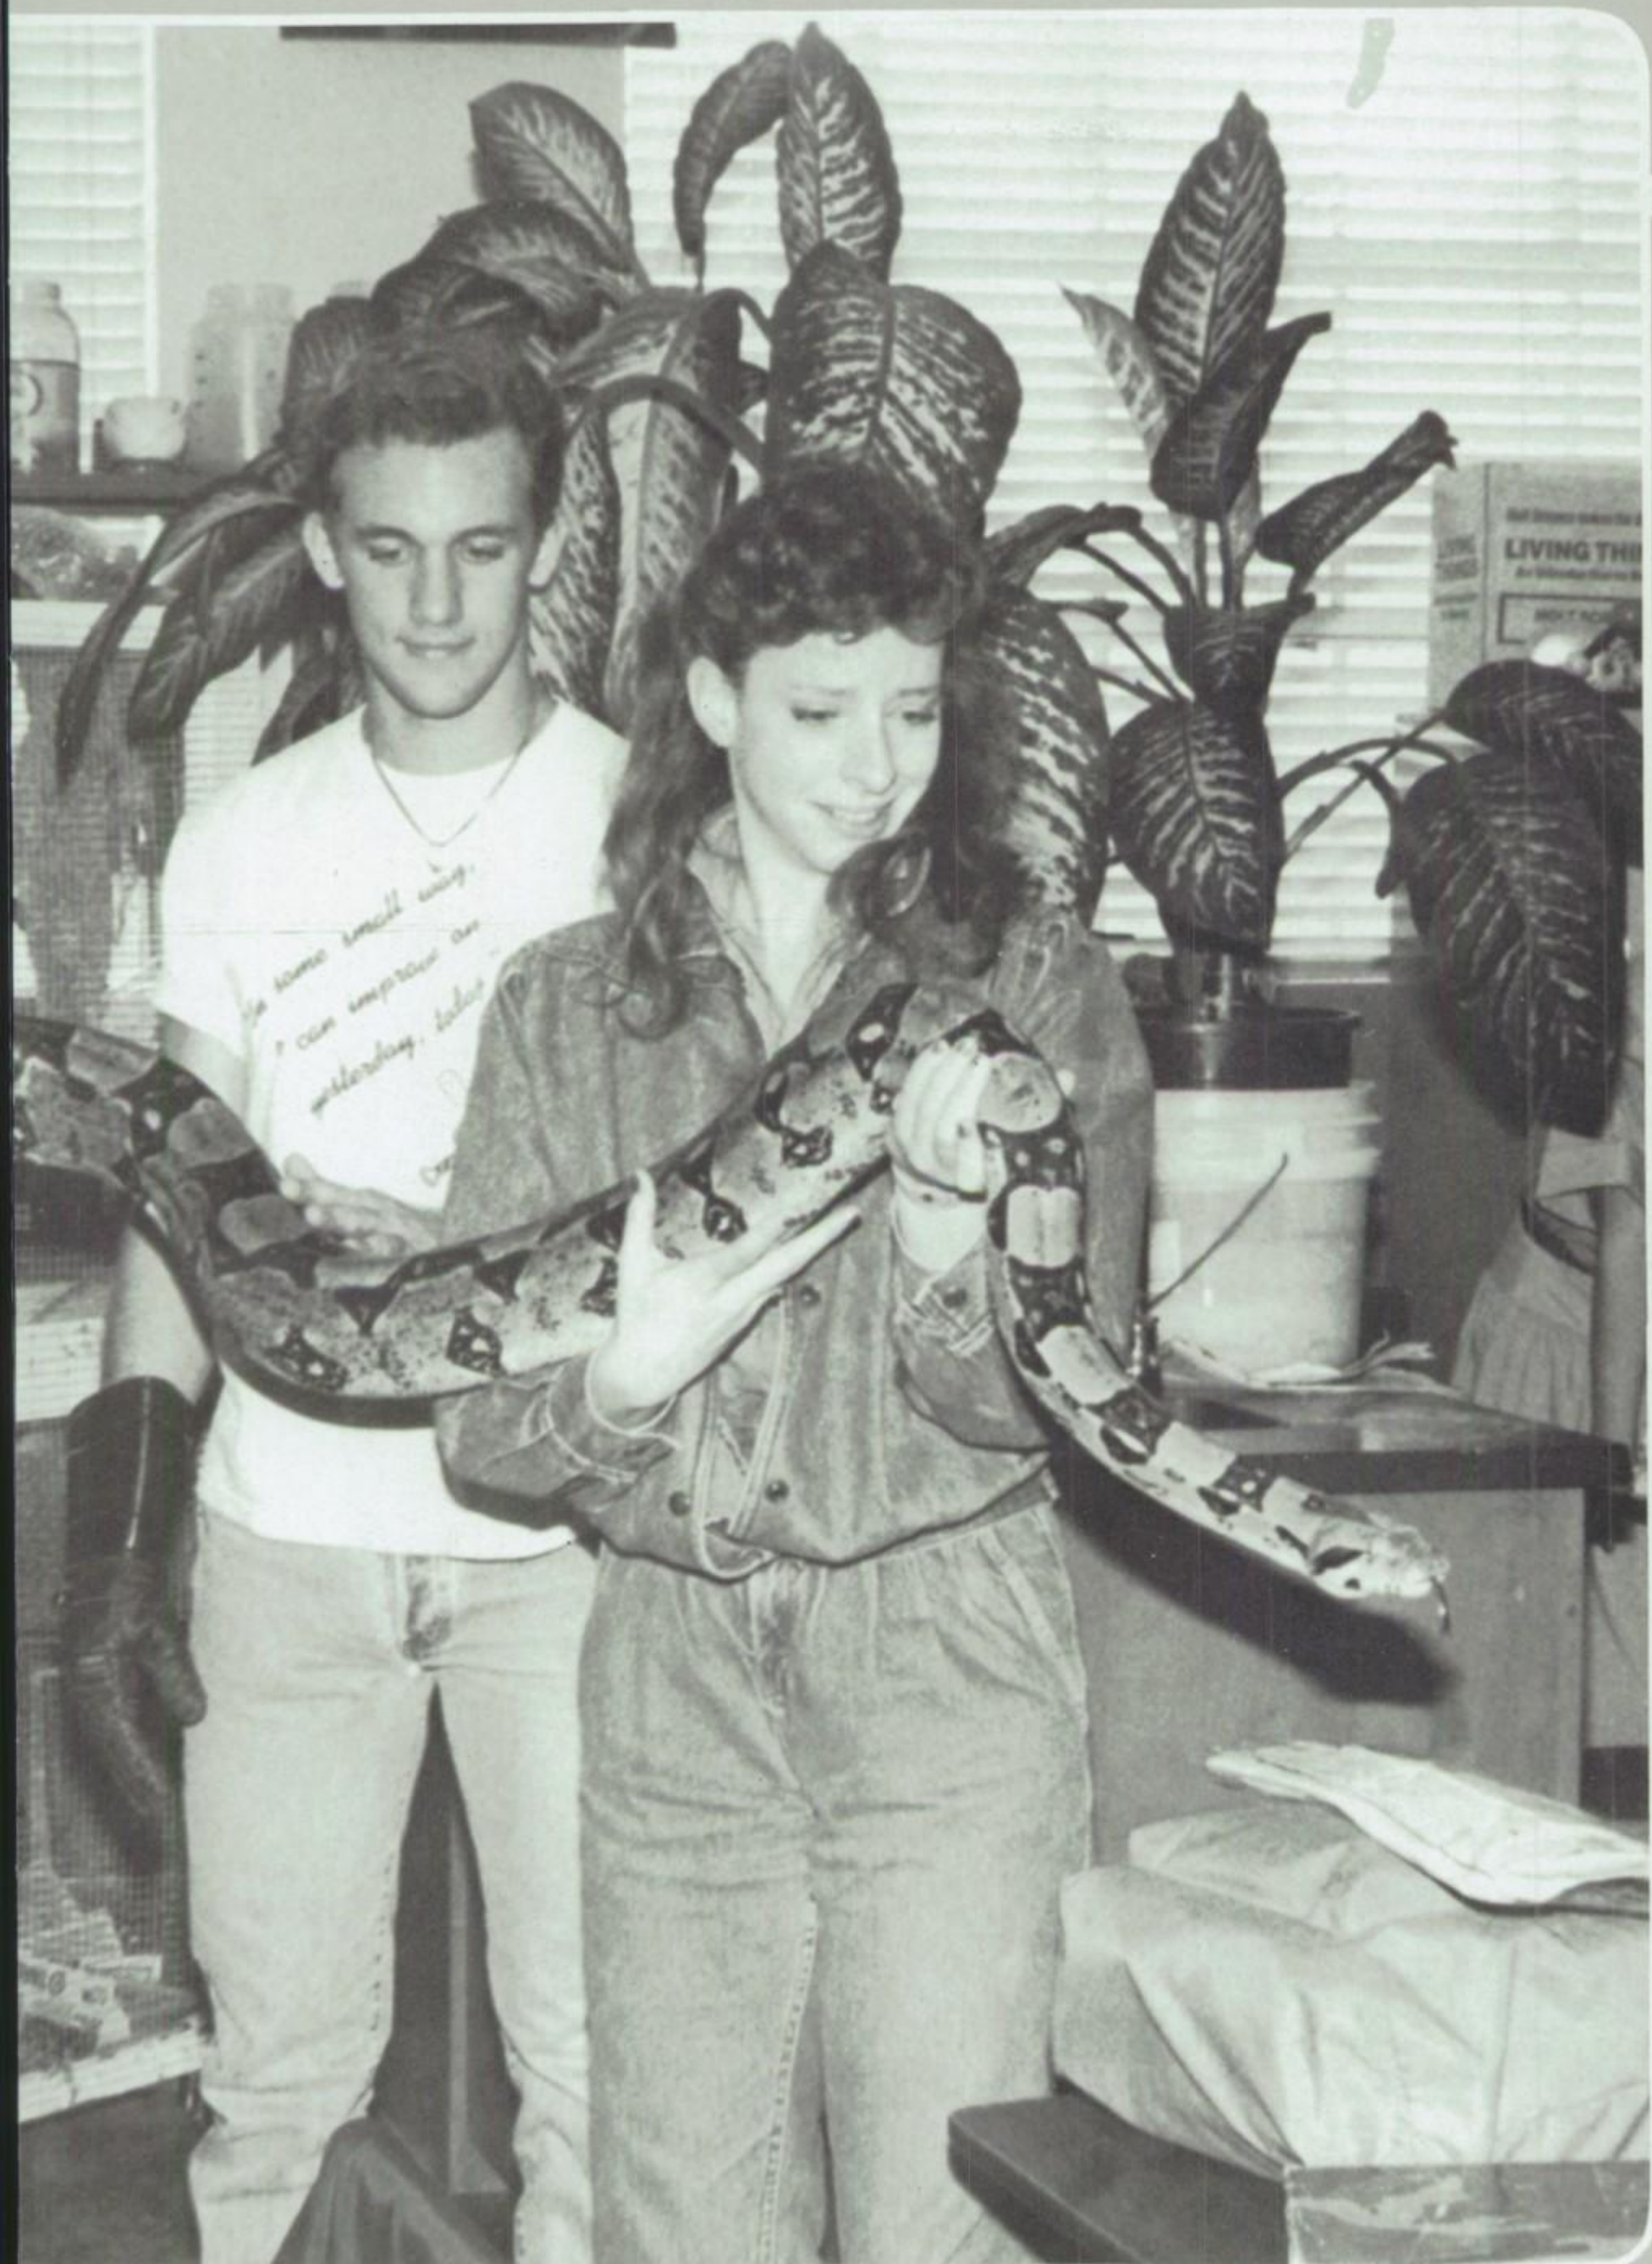

Courses include classwork, homework, studying for tests, book reports, essays, labs, and hands on experience. Achievements in academics is often a key to mapping out the future for each student.

From the many classes offered at Yoe High, students can choose the electives they want to take, along with taking the required courses. The required subjects at Yoe High are courses that are now required throughout Texas, along with some local required courses. However, electives give the student a chance to take courses that they have an individual interest in and ones that offer a diversion from the routine.

Varied Events Signify A Successful Year

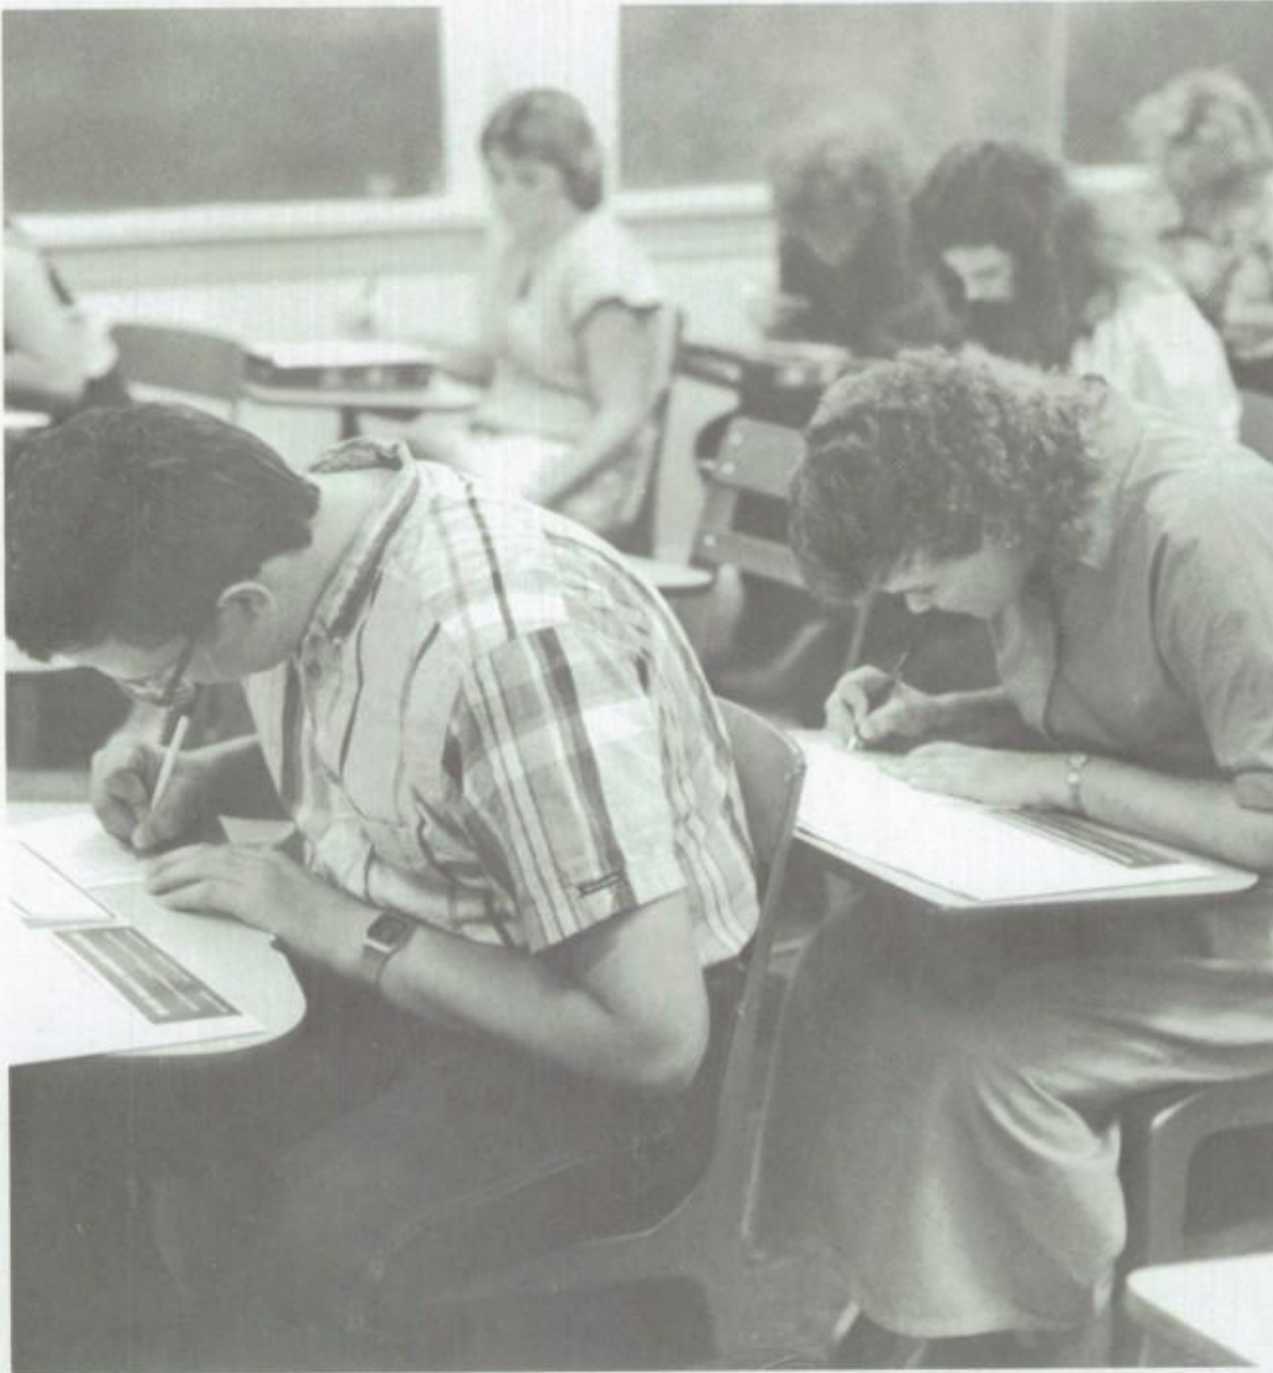

Achieving high marks in academic studies is the main goal of almost everyone at Yoe High. It is better to have good grades and be able to participate in extra-curricular activities, than to have bad grades and not be able to participate. House Bill 72 has made it mandatory that students learn more and make better grades in order to prepare themselves for the future.

At one time, Texas was ranked low educationally because of the quality of education, but within the past few years, the quality of Texas education has improved, raising the state educational rating.

It is mainly due to academic excellence that the rating has improved. This achievement can be attributed to the quality of teaching staffs, administrative staffs, and the willingness of students to learn.

State education ratings are based on the quality of education in the schools throughout the state, thus each school district is given a certain rating. The Cameron Independent School District, on state required exams has always been above the state average. This lets people know that Yoe High has a qualified teaching staff, and that the students are learning.

Knowledge . . . The Final Reward

Triumphs Make For Dynamic Year At YHS

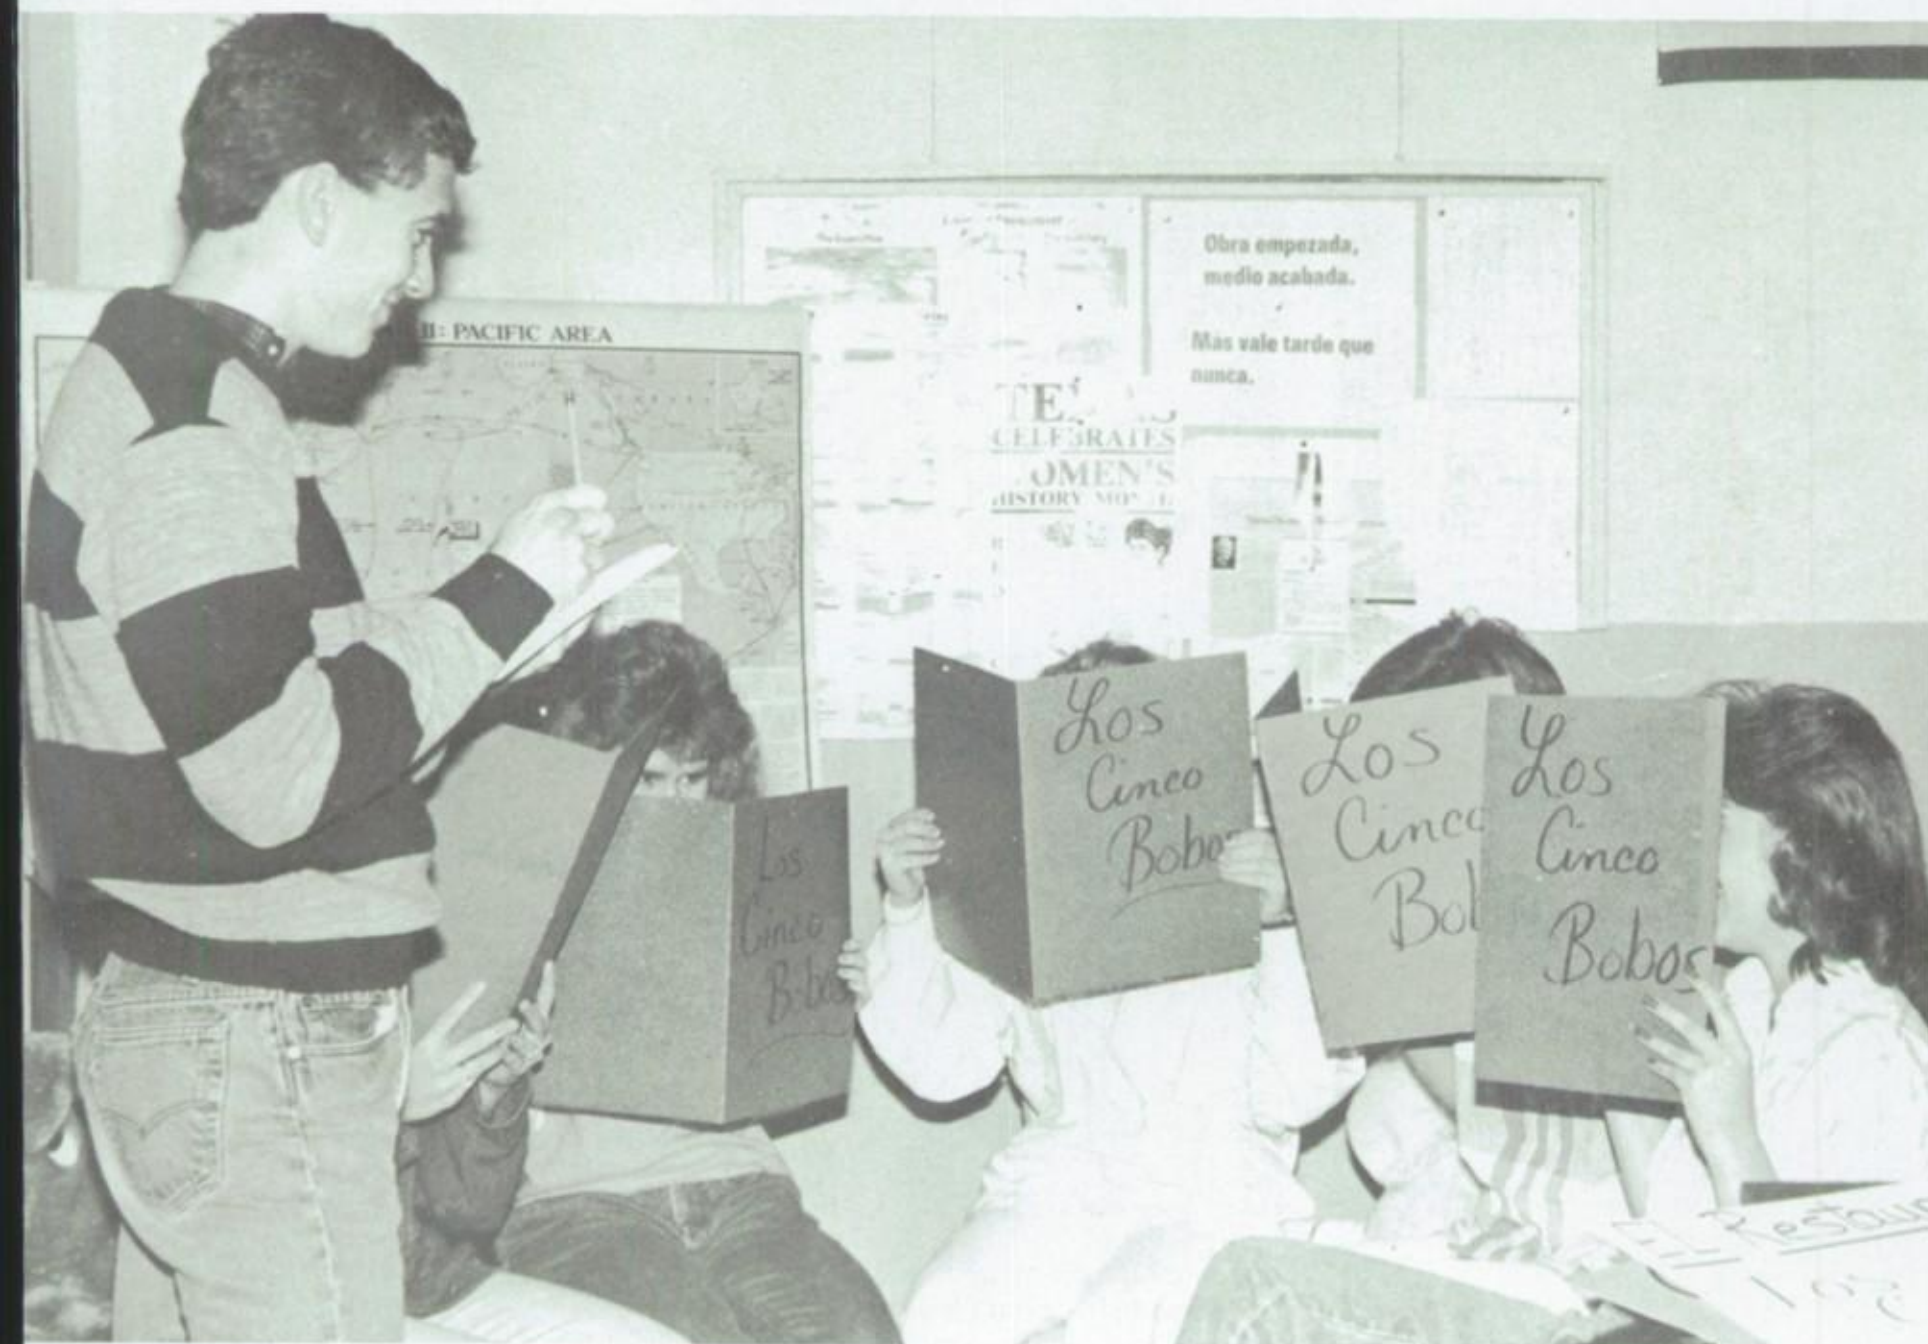

Marvin Miller works with a blender in homemaking I where the "chefs of tomorrow" are trained and prepared for work.

In late March there were UIL meets in which 40 students from Yoe High enrollment participated. Approximately 9 percent of the Yoe High enrollment participated in the various speaking and non-speaking academic events. This is a relatively small percentage of students when one considers that there are 460 students currently attending Yoe High School. Out of the 40 students who attended the UIL meets, 14 entered more than one event. Overall, 25 percent won multiple honors. Eighteen out of the 19 events offered, were entered by the students. The students participating gave Yoe High first place in district by accumulating 318 points. In early May, five students went to State, and two came back with State medals. Diane Kortis won first place in headline writing, and Rustin Buck won second place in ready writing.

In April, it was announced that a Yoe High Senior had been chosen as a recipient of a National Merit Scholarship. Rustin Buck, who graduated as valedictorian of the Class of '87, is only the third person in the history of Yoe High to ever receive such a scholarship.

This was the year of Yoe High! Yoe High was successful in almost everything students competed in. Sports teams, academic, and musical competitors worked hard and overall, students had many victories of which to be proud. Yoe High also saw an improvement in grades, with a fewer number of students being unable to participate in extra-curricular activities.

People

The people of Yoe High established similar goals for the 1986-87 school year.

The 40 members of the faculty worked hard to achieve their goals: no stacks of homework papers to grade, 4 pm each day, and the end of the school year!

Seniors set their goals in anticipation of one day: May 30, 1987. The goal — Graduation!

Juniors looked forward to receiving class rings, finally becoming seniors, and of course, summer vacation!

Sophomores anticipated being upperclassmen. They also could not wait for school to be out!

Freshmen set more short term goals — lunch and the end of 7th period!

Many hours of hard work were put in by faculty and students alike. The end of the year gave them the chance to look back and to see just how hard they really did work.

◀ Those that came before are not forgotten as Student Council members place wreaths during Yoe Day Ceremony.

Student Life

The participation of students in school-related activities is very relevant to the atmosphere at Yoe High.

Homecoming activities, breakthrough sign competition, the flame ceremony, the school and one-act plays, the outstanding students' picnic, the junior and senior banquet, the prom, and the honors and awards presentations all rely on student participation.

As the school year progresses, each of these events add a spice of challenge, competition, and spirit. These occasions encourage the students to strive for academic excellence and to display pride in Yoe High. Student involvement and interest keeps the long-standing tradition of scholastic achievement alive at Yoe High, and helps students to appreciate the standards and principles which exemplify YHS.

3-Time Duchess Takes Honors Flinn Crowns Shelton Queen At '86 Homecoming Ceremony

After being voted duchess of her freshman, sophomore, junior classes, Valerie Shelton was chosen homecoming queen of 1986. Escorted by her father, Ronald Shelton, she was crowned queen by YHS Principal Luther C. Flinn the night of October 17. Homecoming festivities began that morning with homecoming pep rally and the traditional snake dance. That night, the homecoming ceremonies were held during half-time at the game against Caldwell. The other queen nominees were Kathy Dusek, Lisa Williams, and Missy Towchik, seniors. The duchesses consisted of Jennifer Todd, junior, Crystal Taylor, sophomore, and Karen Vrazel, freshman. Student Council President Rustin Buck and Vice-President Deborah Kostroun presented Valerie and other members of the court with flowers. The activities ended that night with a decisive 35-11 Yoemen win over the Caldwell Hornets.

Word-Play Wins Competition For Seniors

The Senior Class developed a play on words to win the Student Council breakthrough sign contest which is held annually to promote spirit for the Cameron Yoemen-Rockdale Tigers football game.

"Maroon The Tigers" was the slogan for the seniors' winning sign, which pictured a tiger stranded on an island surrounded by "oYe" sharks.

The juniors took second place with a sign titled "Don't Mess With Cameron!" It showed a tiger in a trash can with a big outline of Texas in the background.

The third place sign belonged to the sophomores. "The Bell . . . A Step Too High For Rockdale" was their theme, and it depicted a tiger trying to climb up the steps toward the bell.

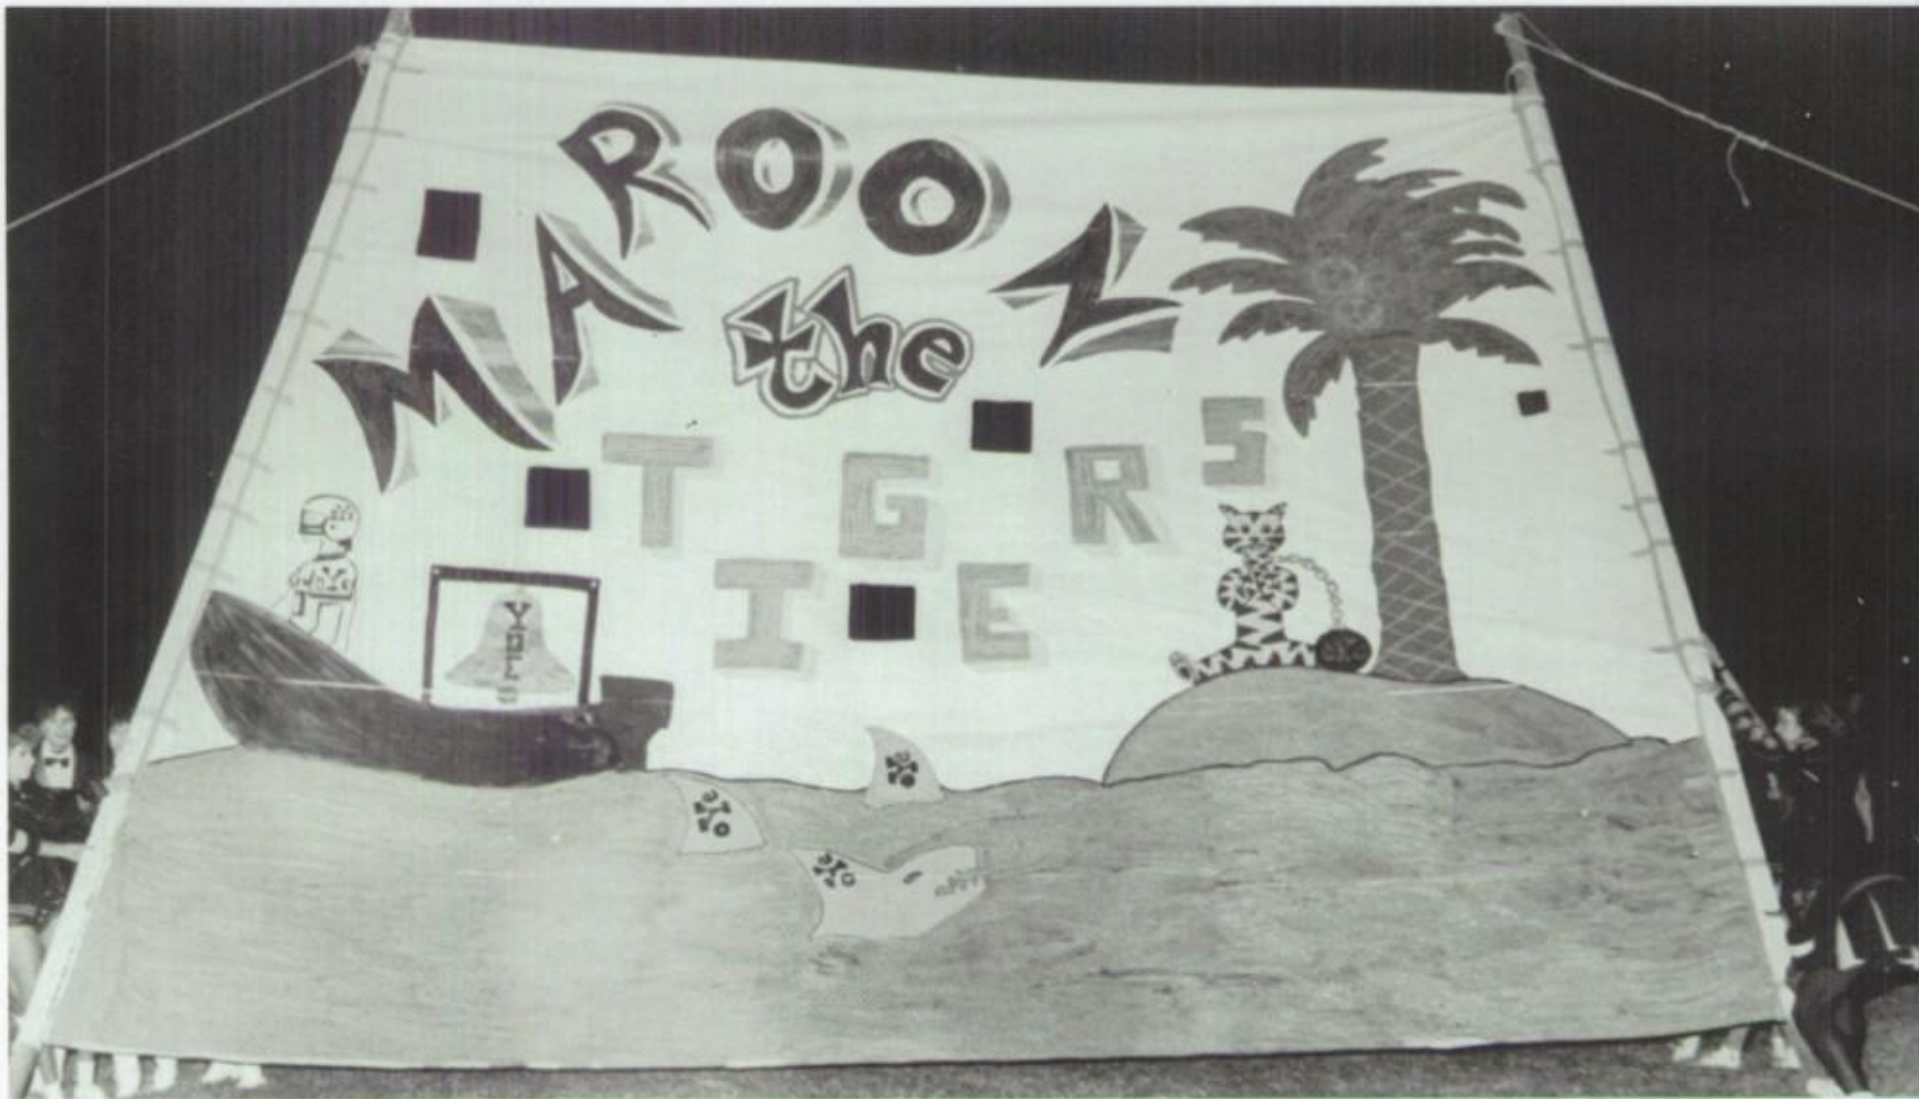

The freshmen placed fourth with a breakthrough sign that exclaimed "Trash The Tigers" and included a picture of a tiger in a trash can.

The senior's sign was displayed at the beginning of the varsity football game in Rockdale on October 31, and the juniors' sign was used at half-time for the reentry of the Yoemen onto the field.

The sophomore and freshman signs were used at the JV and freshman games at Yoe Field the night of October 31.

Judging, which took place on October 29, was based on originality and colorfulness.

King, Queen Crowned At Flame Ceremony

Senior Dexter Smith and sophomore Crystal Taylor were crowned Flame King and Queen at the Madisonville pep rally on November 5 at Yoe Field.

Other attractions were a 30 minute concert by the band, the Yoe High twirlers performing to the song "Entry of the Centurions," and the flag corps presenting a routine to the music "Jailhouse Rock."

During the pep rally, a lighted sphere travelled down a wire from the opposite side of the field and lit the "oYe" into flames.

The other members of the Flame Court were Kathy Dusek, senior, Richard Kostroun and Jennifer Todd, juniors, Stephen Shelton, sophomore, and Lionel Whitfield and Karen Vrazel, freshmen.

On November 7, the Cameron Yoemen beat the Madisonville Mustangs 24-6 and won district.

Who's Who Chosen For 1987 Senior Class

The Class of 1987 has 12 recipients for Who's Who honors. Candidates were selected by a faculty nominating committee according to a set criteria. All nominees must have an 80 grade average or higher in all high school courses since the 9th grade, with emphasis on the senior year. They must have outstanding achievement in at least two extracurricular activities. They must also have no major discipline problems while in high school and must be recognized as having a positive influence in the school. Students were evaluated on the basis of a rating scale of 1-5, with 5 being the highest. Students must receive an average evaluation rating of 3.5 or higher in order to be selected.

Who's Who winners were members of student council, National Honor Society, the Spanish Club, and the band and participated in such activities as UIL competition, the National Spanish and Math Exams. A detailed description of these students' accomplishments are listed on pages 66-67 of the People Section.

Organizations

Each club at Yoe High has goals to help itself and the people of the community. These organizations symbolize pride in many different ways. These clubs encourage scholastic endeavors, supply services to the school and the community, and provide fellowship and leadership. There is a wide selection of organizations to join at YHS.

The organizations at Yoe High begin with Band, Choir, Drama Club, the cheerleaders, FCA, FTA, FFA, and continue with FHA, NHS, Spanish Club, Newspaper Staff, SADD, and end with Photography, Yearbook Staff, Student Aides, and Student Council.

Students and sponsors dedicate much time and effort to produce pride in the individual clubs. By joining their clubs, students can widen their fields of interest while showing spirit in YHS.

Drama Members Stage Plays

The Yoe High Drama Club provides opportunities for students to exhibit creativity in the performing arts. It gives them a chance to participate in stage productions as cast or crew members.

Members also have a prop and costume drive to build up stock to use for productions. They serve as house managers for productions and provide aid in serving coffee and welcoming guests.

The play "Picnic," which won critical acclaim on Broadway in the 1950's, was a production of the drama class this year. The play "Alice in Wonderland," is also being presented this year. It involves the all-school cast.

Charlene Simpson, drama and speech teacher, is the sponsor of the club.

FTA Offers View Of Teaching

Future Teachers of America is a service organization that provides student teachers for the elementary schools. Another project of the group is to raise money for scholarships which two senior FTA members are eligible to receive during the spring semester. There are 33 members but only 17 members actually perform classroom duties every day. The remaining 16 teach one day out of a semester.

The purpose of FTA is to help the elementary teachers supervise the student teachers as to what work needs to be carried out in the classroom. The student teachers may grade papers, teach math, help with reading and other related elementary school activities.

FTA offers its members the opportunity to experience teaching firsthand. Members can evaluate their abilities and see if they have an aptitude for teaching as a career.

National Honor Society Produces Leaders, Scholars

The National Honor Society provides a source of recognition for those who excel academically.

It helps students to strengthen their values and puts emphasis on the real reason for learning in schools.

Students must have a 93 overall average in high school to qualify for NHS. Membership is not only granted on this average, but in the areas of character, leadership, and service to the school and community.

Each year there is a special banquet honoring the new inductees. Parents of all the members and special guests are also invited to attend the event.

Every year the NHS sells birthday calendars to the community to finance its projects.

During the spring, it takes the special education students from Ben Milam to Lion's Park in Waco. This organization also awards two $300 scholarships to the two top senior members of NHS.

SADD Chapter Aids In Public Awareness

The Yoe chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving is a new organization at YHS. The purpose of SADD is to promote public awareness of the dangers of drinking and driving drunk. Guest speakers from Temple Crime Prevention and other organizations attend SADD meetings. At the meetings the speakers relate personal experiences and talk about the dangers of drinking and driving. The SADD goals are as follows: To help eliminate the drunk drivers and save lives, to conduct community alcohol awareness programs, to alert and inform students of the dangers of alcohol and driving, and to organize a peer counseling program to help students who may have concerns about alcohol.

ARROW Staff Collects News At Yoe High

The students in this class produce the ARROW, the official school newspaper of Yoe High School. The ARROW is printed bi-monthly as a part of the local newspaper, THE CAMERON HERALD.

The students interview the people and gather their information. They then write the stories following the prescribed format depending on the assignment.

Staff Compiles Information Into YOEMAN

The students on the yearbook staff have one goal — the production of the YOEMAN. YOEMAN staffers spend weeks learning the basics of yearbook.

Each student learns to draw layouts and put together Quad-Paks for a section. All of the staffers work together on choosing a theme for the yearbook. After finding a suitable theme, they work on creating their sections around this main idea.

Besides learning the fundamentals of yearbook production, staffers sell advertising to help finance the cost of the annual so that the purchase price is as low as possible for the students.

After learning the basics of yearbook and selling ads, the staffers spend months putting what they learned into practice by creating a memory book for the YHS community.

Student Aides Help Teachers, Local Schools

With the many tasks teachers are faced with, they often need help throughout the school day. For this reason the school curriculum offers some teachers the opportunity to have student aides. These aides carry out duties or jobs according to the teachers' supervision.

In Ben Milam, aides are needed for the nurses' station, the media center, and the office.

Ada Henderson lets the aides help out in PE, the office, and the library.

Student Council Encourages Pride At YHS

"The Yoe High Student Council is dedicated to making life at Yoe High School and in Cameron better through sponsoring activities for school pride, promoting safety and health for the people, and furnishing entertainment," said Rustin Buck, Student Council president. Student Council supplies many school and community services throughout the year. The representatives work as school crossing guards at the elementary school. All members work on committees to sponsor homecoming, the powder-puff game, Flame King and Queen, and to put together a scrapbook. Many students participate in working on the breakthrough sign contest which is also sponsored by Student Council. Many members work with the Parents Against Drug Abuse organization to help promote drug and alcohol awareness. They also provide entertainment for elderly people, and collect food for the needy.

Student Council projects are financed by selling briskets and spirit ribbons to the people of the community.

Student Council is often called "the most important organization at Yoe High" because it is similar to a student government.

Sports

The sports program last year at Yoe High definitely lived up to its name of being a "class Yoeman act." Last year on the varsity level, sports teams won several district titles, and this year was no different.

It is the participation of students and the understanding of parents that makes the school's program the type that it is today.

Athletes attempt to excel in the sports they choose, whether it be football, basketball, baseball, volleyball, track, golf, or tennis. They always seem to give that extra 110% to be known as champions, as well as filling the personal goals to be the best they can be.

Yoe High athletes provided the content for this section as they took to the fields of competition. No matter the outcome, these young people accepted the challenge and provided many memorable moments in sports for the YHS community.

Advertising

This section of the 1987 YOEMAN annual is unique in layout and contents, and it consists solely of advertising planned by the section word workers.

Staffers first sold advertising to area merchants to help cover expenses for the yearbook. Advertising revenue helps to keep the cost of the yearbook as low as possible for the students. The yearbook ads also provide a permanent type of advertising that shows the business each time the book is viewed. The ad sales bring in approximately one third of the money needed to finance the production of the YOEMAN.

All staffers sell the backer and display ads while section workers record and prepare the advertising layouts. The advertising section of the YOEMAN truly combines the efforts of the Yoe High annual staffers as they work together on the yearbook.

Yoe Campus Provides Forum For Student-Teacher Rapport

The buildings in which the students attend classes at Yoe High are a mixture of old and new. The three-story, 66-year-old, main building perpetuates the idea of permanence and stability.

The newer facilities help students and faculty to keep up and move with the changing times.

The teachers are concerned about the students and encourage them to participate in the many opportunities available through the school. Many students are receptive to this encouragement and achieve remarkable results in the endeavors.

The rapport between the students and teachers carries on the legacy of teamwork and maroon, gray and you.

▲ Drama teacher Charlene Simpson applies make-up to Lori Mees in preparation for "Alice in Wonderland."

▼ Home-Ec teacher Kathryn Janicek talks on phone to employee about job placements.

▼ Jimmy and Daniel Sadler learn the proper procedure for electrical wiring in ag class.

YHS Spirit Lives Through Actions Of Individuals

The majority of students at Yoe High care enough about the school and themselves to try to excel. There are not too many areas of academic, athletic, or musical interests that have not made the headlines this year.

Usually, what happens at Yoe High depends on the individual. Learning can be fun and rewarding at the same time. The true Yoe attitude — trying, learning, participating, winning — is a personal commitment.

At graduation, a segment of the maroon, gray and you will leave Yoe High only to be replaced by a group of freshmen next school year. The cycle will continue.

Students will leave Yoe High, but the memories will linger on.

Together students, teachers and members of the community are the true meaning of maroon, gray and you. Through them, the Yoe spirit lives on.

YOEMAN

Maroon, Gray and You — In this case the you includes people not on the yearbook staff who helped in some way to make the 1987 YOEMAN a reality.

The YOEMAN '87 Staff wishes to thank the following individuals for their contributions:

English teachers Betty Harmon, Rae Green, Mary Jean

Edmonds, and Susan Rosson, and school secretary Minta Miller who sold and distributed yearbooks.

Mike Peck of the CAMERON HERALD who furnished football and other pictures for the '87 YOEMAN.

Jerry Bethell for taking pictures and offering advice.

Cynthia Dunbar of Provine Pictures of Texas who took class, organization, and awards pictures.

Those students out of the photo classes who volunteered and carried the burden for the sports and activity pictures.

All of the people who purchased ads and yearbooks.
